

1

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 An improved steerable catheter comprises an elongated tubular catheter body with a flexible tip section. A pair of slidably mated puller wires fixedly attached to each other at their distal ends extend from a handle at the proximal end of the catheter body through a lumen in the catheter body and into a lumen in the tip section. Proximal movement of one puller wire relative to the other results in deflection of the tip section.

10

DAD/ses

MAC PAS515162.1--*-11/18/03 4:27 PM

15

20

25

30

35